

Carmen McClelland

I strongly oppose this data center. We are a drought prone state with water limitations already in place around the state. While it would be a temporary increase in construction jobs, permanent operational staffing is often relatively small compared with the size of the investment and the amount of land, water, and energy used.