

Ann Pat

I am a resident of Fremont, California and I believe every living thing should have a chance to explore and enjoy this planet. However, destroying homes of various species, including the human kind, will force an irreversible change and will strip us of the chances we have to experience everything our Earth has to offer.