

Tyler Evans

Project Jupiter is a terrible plan that will decimate the community and the state that I love. The water allocation will increase and the taxpaying citizens will be left to foot the bill. Citizens do NOT want data centers in their backyard to have their water poisoned, their air polluted, and their electricity bills raised to accommodate a billionaire who just can never have enough.

The average American sees through the whole charade at this point. We know the government is trying to build a total surveillance state similar to China. Large-scale data centers like this one are a major stepping stone to that end goal. We will not allow it.

People are fed up with this nonsense. You should truly nip this in the bud before people start to take matters into their own hands.

I would urge the elected officials to heed the warning of their constituents. It has spread far and wide. We are awake.