

Anonymous Anonymous

We get nothing out of destroying other animals lives and homes but for some reason we still do it. These animals probably don't even know we exist and we're still going to kill them for the sake of our own lives, which if I may add are horrible for the Earth. If we allow Project Jupiter to move forward from a plan to actual actions, we won't have a voice. But right now we have a voice in the matter and not all the time, but if thousands of people believe what you're doing is wrong, then it's more times than none; wrong. What people don't realize is that by harming animals and their environment, we're also harming ourselves in the long run. Sure we'll have good resources for a while, but eventually the process of those resources destroying the Earth and atmosphere will make people realize "wow, maybe we should've been decent people and this wouldn't have happened".

"The public should be given an additional 60 days to review and comment on the air quality permit so community members can participate equitably.

The air quality permit application should be denied outright given Bloom Energy's history of illegal dumping hazardous waste. Approving this permit would be government-sponsored environmental racism directed at residents of Doña Ana County.

If the permit is not denied outright, a public hearing needs to be held in Santa Teresa, in both English and Spanish, with an option to participate virtually."