

Amber Roy

There are plausible fuel systems that can be alternative to the current system outlined. Cutting down on the water to the center that would already use a plentyful that we in a desert cannot spare. We do not need a non-essential plant or center that will disrupt our stressed communities that need fresh water.