

Anonymous Anonymous

We CANNOT let project Jupiter happen. The climate is bad as it is and if we would be to let project Jupiter go through it'd worsen even more. As of today we have 3 years until our environment is done, until there's no turning back. We're in a crisis right now and we don't need any more hinders. We need nature, wild life, anything that prevents the global warming! A brand new data center will not only produce a lot of carbon dioxide during its working phase, but also produce a lot of carbon dioxide during the building phase. This means that we will have to take a big blow climate wise only for the building of the data center and continuous outpour of carbon dioxide after the building phase. There will be no time for our planet to recover from our previous mistakes. See, if they would go through with this data center and our world would be actually destroyed for good, and we all would eventually die. Therefore the data center would've been a complete waste! It would have been built, we would go under, and the data center stands there with no use other than being a mass killer. Including the owners, employees and the sponsors. Nothing would matter after this point. So please! Don't let them go through with this "project Jupiter" and deny their air quality permit!