

Ezekiel Nance

New Mexico is already struggling to maintain its environmental integrity. A data center requiring millions of gallons of fresh water, and producing air quality reducing emissions comparable to several of our larger municipalities combined is ridiculous and irresponsible.