

Gail Guengerich

This is an incursion that will exhaust our water and our resources. It will be disastrous, enriching a few people - but not really improving their lives in any real sense- and leaving the rest to suffer the ugly consequences, all to prop up a technology most people don't really want. Everyone behind this Project Jupiter should consider the cost to their reputation and to their own peace of mind. The most grotesque wealth will never relieve the internal impact of crimes against others.
