

Ethan Swain

Data centers do not need to exist to this scale. This is purely corporate greed, poking at the limit of how far they can ruin environments before they are stopped. This will destroy the nearby ecosystems, killing off possibly thousands of local species in the immediate area, this includes fauna and animals alike, which will eventually lead to worse air quality due to the lack of carbon absorbers like trees and plants. For anyone that cares about our earth and our biodiversity, I implore you to act on this, please reconsider this plan.