

Daniel Kreymborg

Building a data center will bring us nothing good, and will contribute to global warming. It will also drain our fresh water supply which is already getting really low.