We cannot allow Project Jupiter to gamble with the future of Doña Ana County just to feed the insatiable energy appetite of corporate AI. Despite the developers' greenwashed promises, this massive data center campus will still pump millions of tons of greenhouse gases into our air and threaten our critically depleted regional aquifers in the middle of an ongoing water crisis. Pushing this project forward through non-transparent backroom deals and deceptive corporate canvassing—without a truly independent, public review of its environmental toll—is an unacceptable risk to our public health and local resources. Our community's water, air, and future are not for sale.
