

Maria Hernandez

Among the many issues with creating such a large data center, this data center would be taking more resources than the people who surround it. This space has been able to continue existing because there has not been large scale construction of this nature. To continue with this project would be a gross neglect of the land and people needs.