

Jason Kottler

No! No way! We don't need to sell out our environment permanently for a bubble that will be over before construction is complete.