

JD Harding

These data centers keep getting built under our noses, proposing to make our lives better, or to bring jobs. In reality, all they do is take resources that we can never get back. In this case, our clean air will be polluted, and not for our benefit, and not because we want it. But for the benefit of billionaires to profit even more off of our natural resources. I am adamantly against this project. It will affect the air quality in a beautiful region that needs the clean air.