

Zae Reynolds

Using your system with the methane gas is gonna leak quite a bit of chemicals into the water, air, and land that aren't naturally supposed to be there. If you think back to chemistry you will remember that this isn't just gonna leave or break down, it takes chemicals thousands of years to break down using the half life scale. For future generations they're gonna have to deal with having chemicals in their drinking water, the air they breathe, and all for what? For AI fruit videos kissing. Also the pipelines are gonna destroy the land that a lot of people still rely on to this day, for food like hunting and farming.