

Roger Hale

I feel that this type of project is totally unacceptable for an area in the desert. The requirements for water and the impact on air quality should not effect the quality of life for any community.

The requirements of such a project should not take a critical water supply from those in a community that rely on it for their livelihood. Please do not misrepresent the facts and requirements needed for such a large scale facility.

This type of facility should be built where there is a source of water that can be used. A desalination plant on the coast would be a better source of water. An area that can be helped with the water resource and not hampered.