

Kyle Beachy

As is glaringly obvious to every single person who lives in New Mexico, water is sacred here. The continuously shifting plans as promoted, and then re-promoted, by this developer is a sign that their only interests are for profit. They care nothing for the earth, specifically for the water required to sustain life in this part of the country. As such, I join a loud and vocal chorus of New Mexicans pleading for our state to reject this proposal. Our future is far too vital to sell it out for a few bucks. Please say no. Thank you. Sincerely, kb