

ELIZABETH ARANETA

The government never truly cared for the people despite the white and pretty lies they give. The basic necessities that are growing meager and meager each year that the government and the people's ignorance seem to grow more and more. At least there is still time right now. Because later on the history books will tell a joke about what a poor and corrupt system that we ran and continued to run for so long.