Project Jupiter is not all that you people think it's cracked up to be. I'm not sure what they're promising you, but it's definitely not a spot on the spaceship that leaves earth once you people have finally destroyed it. You think the money or the power or whatever you're getting from this is just so great, just wait. Karma is patient and just and every single person involved in this project will unfortunately understand that one day. Well, unfortunate for them, not for us normal people.
