

Damon McGinn

NO DATA CENTERS IN THE WATER-STARVED SOUTHWEST! What are we thinking? The development here is enough. Unless we find a way to get incoming population to bring water or pay into a fund to figure out how to bring water from their water-rich areas that people are moving from, the sliver of the seasonal rio grande will be gone. The aquifer too. I just drove past the amistad reservoir. That's real time evidence of why these data centers can NOT be built in the southwest.