The agreement we made as a state was for WIPP to be done with by 2024. Well, we, the public, are certainly done. We don't need dangerous waste traipsing back and forth across our state and then all the way across the South along poor communities the entire way, just waiting for disaster to occur. Disaster, much like Palestine, OH. Why? What is the obsession with running dangerous waste all over the place? It's dangerous. Don't keep making it, and if you do, store it in place. Don't parade it across the country. Obviously. Can we not keep courting disaster after disaster?????
