

Jonathan Gonzalez

I am concerned the proposed WIPP permit changes could cut shipments and slow operations. If throughput is limited, waste will build up at other sites and affect WIPP's long-term mission.

These changes also impact workers, their families, and the local community. Job stability depends on steady operations and a consistent flow of waste.

I support cleanup at LANL, but not if it means limiting other sites and at the cost of jobs. The permit should allow balanced shipments from all locations.