

Laura Foreman

It is absolutely imperative that people living close to and next to a concrete batch plant have input into the permitting process. We are the ones who will be living with the health and property value consequences of such a plant. There are rumors that a concrete batch plant will be popping up across the street from me, well within 440 yards of my property line. I have young kids and I also have asthma. A plant going up so close would be detrimental to our health and the health of our close neighbors. Thanks.