

Simone Kern

Ever since I moved to Houston, my asthma has steadily worsened. The number of Ozone Air Action days seems to get worse and worse each year as well. I cannot enjoy the outdoors or work outside because the air quality is so bad, and I can't breathe. The millions of residents who live here are at greater risk for pulmonary disease because of the constant exposure to Ozone and other pollutants.