

sydney brainard

With the oil and auto industries dominating our nation and state, it is unjust to penalize drivers and users of petroleum vehicles. The manufacturers are the ones who make engines and machinery meet better standards. The citizens of this state can only do so much when the items they use do not regulate pollution.

This will not change anything but put more money in coffers that do not need it.