

t logan

my experience of TECQ is that is a store front that does nothing substantive and gives a free pass to polluters, corporate and residential rather than enforce responsible stewardship of the Earth. Taking without regard, developers raze the trees and suck up the water, and the pollution of petro chem and big Ag go unabated, we live in an ever toxic world. There is another way, but it takes the will to change.