I support the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality's effort to amend 30 TAC Chapter 293 to implement HB 2080 and provide greater clarity and structure to the process for handling petitions filed by affected persons regarding the actions of a groundwater conservation district. Clear procedures, defined timelines, and transparent standards for review are essential to ensuring fairness, consistency, and public confidence in the petition process. As groundwater management decisions can have significant impacts on landowners, communities, and regional water planning, it is important that affected persons have a meaningful and well-defined avenue for review. I encourage the Commission to ensure the final rule provides clear guidance to petitioners and districts alike while maintaining due process and administrative efficiency.
