

Don McClendon

I voted against ethics training, not because I don't think it's important, but personally, I have ingrained in me a good ethical background and don't feel the need (personally). But I do believe some licensed personnel needs the training if not just for an introduction to ethical behavior. I will gladly comply and don't have a problem with it but I would definitely want it to be included in the normally required CEU's. I just don't want to have to pay for something I feel is unnecessary personally.
