

Michael Sjogren

No need for ethics training. The majority of people will do the right thing. Enforce the existing rules and hold those accountable that don't follow the rules. Simple.