I am highly concerned about the lack of appropriate measures to reduce aquifer contamination in the tailings areas that have been proposed by Copper World Hudbay. This could lead to high amounts of carcinogenic heavy metals getting into our water supply. I find it unacceptable to have the mining company monitor and "self-report" the contaminant levels, what ensures that they will be honest about this or even report it to ADEQ? I am highly concerned for the children in the area that will be affected by these toxins in their water. I have no faith that Copper World/ Hudbay will do the right thing and report water contamination, they aren't even taking the steps to line their tailing areas, what makes us think they will take the steps to correctly monitor our water? Thank you for considering my input, I appreciate your time.
