

Anne Clock

Open air pits are never good for the environment and this one is a polluting action taking by a company that is aware of this. Once on the air this pollution force will end up also on our water and in our bodies. When i saw you had already made roads to begin i knew the public was in danger