

Helen Greer

As a long time cyclist, I know from where the wind blows. And in spring time, it's overwhelmingly from the south east. Which is where the proposed mine is located in relation to Tucson. I have grave concerns for springtime air quality in Tucson. A time when local residents and visitors are making the most of outdoor opportunities in the beautiful Sonoran desert. Will air quality issues destroy this season? And add to the ozone pollution with which we have to deal?