

Deirdre Rosenberg

I am so against this as is literally every other person I know. This should require a Class I permit for Hubble, with stricter regulations that would help protect people and the environment from air pollution. Money is being put before people or environment and it's reprehensible. The quality of the environment must be put first in this matter, as this is a crucial region for life.