To whom it may concern:

I would like to voice my opinion on the proposed change in regulations to require notice of intent to be only filed electronically.

I believe I would speak to the concerns of many farmers in the very rural north eastern corner of the state. To be required to and dependent on electronically filed anything is a stretch. The technology infrastructure is not of consistent nature. With our Internet and wireless technology, most times it works but there are times that it does not.

I feel that to enact this regulation could cause undue hardship on many farmers who do not have access to the latest technology and expose them to unnecessary liability if their electronically filed notice of intent does not file completely and successfully.
