

California Needs Better Pesticide Transparency

May 1, 2026

Dear California Department of Pesticide Regulation,

We, the 2,561 undersigned, urge the department to include the exact location where dangerous pesticides deemed “restricted materials” will be used via the SprayDays notification system.

SprayDays currently only provides location-specific reporting within 1 square mile (640 acres) of where pesticides will be sprayed. This vague approach to location reporting doesn't provide the transparency and site-specific information needed to best protect people against pesticide exposure — nor does it give enough details to inform better safeguards for wildlife that could be affected.

Public health alert systems should do everything possible to reduce real harm. Californians should be told the exact location of hazardous-chemical applications so we can take the measures we need to protect our health and safety. Please make this change in the coming annual SprayDays update.
