

Joan and Charles Coston

Rather than spend time and money on poisoning the environment, let's improve conditions for rodent predators by not killing them in droves with these rodenticides. This is a major step backward in rodent control, and should be cancelled.