

Keith Grenier

We shouldn't allow anticoagulant rodenticides in California. We already allow the use of it for emergency public health needs, so it isn't necessary to allow them for other scenarios. This will impact wildlife in a negative way for decades to come. It doesn't make sense to roll back those protections.