

Carrie Covell

Please ban the use of all rodenticides! They are an inhumane and ineffective, causing not only the painful deaths of animals they target, but also death for larger predators and even companion animals. Other animal control methods such as contraception are much more effective and humane. California sets the standard for environmental protection in the United States - let's please keep it that way and choose to treat our animals with compassion. From a native Californian who has lived all over the state and owns a business here, thank you!