All anticoagulant rodenticides should be banned and there should be no exceptions. Existing restrictions are not enough to prevent the killing of non-target pets and other animals, several of which are already threatened or endangered. There is no need to rely on cruel, reductive outdated poisons for pest control when several feasible, effective and humane options already exist and are less expensive in many cases. The public does not support the use of poison that harms wildlife. Please do nothing to expand or encourage its use. Thank you for you time and consideration.
