

Andrea Messenger

California is already one of the most expensive states to live in. Increasing gas prices will continue to make families choose between getting to work or paying their grocery bills! The state wonders why California has a mass exodus and this is one of the many reasons.