

Denise England

This proposal will unfairly impact families in rural California which lacks EV infrastructure and household income does not support the purchase of electric vehicles. Furthermore, these families travel farther to work, school, and markets resulting in more miles driven and more fuel consumed for basic necessities.