

Devin Walker

What will be the next excuse to raise taxes? Not everyone is a lackey appointed by the gov good hair making 6 figures a year. This state and the carb board are ridiculous one thing after another. If they cared so much about emissions then they would force every city and state gov agency to comply with smog regs or they would stop high speed rail due to all the polluting it's caused over the years. But they don't because it's their own little slush fund corruption is alive and well in California.