

Philip Leone

Everyone complains about higher gas prices when we implement pollution restrictions policies for better air quality. The impact of higher oil prices by the violent actions of our federal government on oil producing areas leads to an immediate price hike with no long term health or environmental benefits.