

Susanne Hesse & Doug Dyer

Organic standards need to be more rigorous including investigating inert ingredients. Once land, the plants, animals and other products we are counting on to remain pure have been contaminated it is too late