

John Doucette

Components of pesticides may be listed as inert. We must be certain that these ingredients actually are inert and do not have any kind of interaction with other chemicals or with anything in the environment.