

Naomi Zurcher

I am a longtime consumer of organically produced products and, when buying processed foods, I want to know ALL the ingredients and that means what is inert as well as everything else that I will be consuming. If a can of peeled tomatoes or a jar of salsa is labelled 'organic', I want to be able to see everything that's been used to formulate the end result. No shortcuts and no loopholes.